Dear coin collectors and coin enthusiasts,

The latest annual programme of German collector and commemorative coins is once again full of brilliant highlights. One of these is the launch of the 20 euro 'Influential Women' silver coin series, running until 2035, which will honour female personalities and their lifetime achievements. Before Elly Heuss-Knapp, the founder of the Mothers' Convalescence Society, takes centre stage in the autumn, the first coin in the series, '50 Years of the International Year of Women', will focus on gender equality. The new 20, 50 and 100 euro gold coins, which can only be ordered during the exclusive gold ordering period from 18/03 to 9/04/2025, will once again provide some brilliant moments. The 'Christmas' series comes to an atmospheric climax with the 'Three Wise Men' 25 euro silver coin. You will find an overview of these attractive highlights for 2025 on the next two pages.

The other highlights: the fourth motif from the 'Serving society' 10 euro polymer ring series, 'Technisches Hilfswerk (THW)', and the two 20 euro silver coins '75th Berlinale' and 'Chemnitz – European Capital of Culture 2025', which are dedicated to two outstanding cultural events. The 'Saarland (Saar Loop)' and '35 Years of German Unity' 2 euro commemorative coins allow us to travel through our country and its history in different ways.

We hope you have many exciting insights as you discover our annual programme and, of course, lots of fun collecting.

The 25 euro 'Christmas' silver coin series on well-known and popular traditions and symbols draws to its conclusion with the fifth motif 'Three Wise Men'. As with all coins in the series, the dome shaping ensures a particularly vivid appearance. The eyelet on the capsule means the coin can easily be hung on a Christmas tree as an ornament.

Volunteers ready for action

As a federal organisation, the Technisches Hilfswerk (THW) follows the legal mandate to provide technical assistance in emergencies to protect the population, during foreign missions on behalf of the Federal Government and in local emergency response. Its structure is unique in the world: 98% of its more than 90,000 members are involved on a voluntary basis. The coin's motif vividly depicts the human and technical aspects of the many different types of work involved, effectively framed by the polymer ring in the typical blue theme of the THW.

Great cinema

The Berlinale is one of the largest public festivals in the world and attracts tens of thousands of visitors every year. Many stars of international cinema flock to Berlin, talents are discovered and promoted, filmmakers from all genres are given a stage and plenty of limelight. The picture side of the coin is a view from the cinema audience towards the screen. The spotlight in a packed cinema is on the red coloured logo. The linear design has a striking depth effect and elegance.

An important topic

The United Nations declared 1975 the International Year of Women. The aim was to raise awareness of the situation of women worldwide and encourage governments to take measures to promote gender equality. The international women symbol, in which a mathematical equal sign is enclosed, is in the centre of the coin. The motif is characterised by the impressive clarity of the composition and the masterful artistic design with graphic linear elements and relief technique.

Undiscovered beauty in the heart of Europe

The European Commission has awarded the “European Capital of Culture” title to cities every year since 1985. Chemnitz holds the coveted award in 2025 and provides an extensive programme giving new impetus for art, culture and ideas for the future. The filigree and detailed coin motif depicts the city’s diversity and focuses on over 200 years of art, cultural and industrial history. The arrangement of the stars puts the city at the centre of Europe – a clear commitment to European identity.

Equal rights fighter

Elly Heuss-Knapp (1881-1952) was an author, politician, advertising expert and women's rights activist. She continued to work even after her marriage and the birth of her son, and remained socially active. In 1950, she founded the Mothers' Convalescent Society – in her own words, the “crowning achievement of my life”. The coin motif portrays Elly Heuss-Knapp in three-quarter profile, sensitively executed and modelled in detail. She radiates openness, empathy and strength with her expression, which is brought to life with great artistic mastery.

Biblical messengers

The Three Wise Men are inextricably linked with the birth of Jesus. They are described in the Gospel of Matthew as astrologers, the legendary transfiguration began in the Middle Ages, and their remains lie in a magnificent reliquary in Cologne Cathedral. The detailed coin design does not appear overloaded despite the many figures depicted with the various technical designs dividing it all into three areas: the kings and Christ Child are delicately modelled, the dromedaries are flat, the star a sweeping line.

Sleek hunter

The Eurasian lynx lives in large forest areas and was once widespread in Western Europe. Human persecution in particular has almost completely decimated the populations. Individual specimens are appearing again today in a few German low mountain ranges. The coin motif vividly and richly showcases the largest cat in Europe seemingly pausing in mid-movement: with piercing eyes, clearly visible muzzle and cheek whiskers, the typical brush eared features and the striking strong legs with large paws.

Healthy through craftsmanship

Five different crafts – ophthalmic optics, hearing acoustics, orthopaedic and orthopaedic shoe technology and dental technology – are directly involved in the healthcare sector in Germany. They help remedy the consequences of many acute and chronic illnesses and enable people to lead a self-determined life. The coin depicts an impressively vital composition where the optical measuring device and the patient merge into a single unit, thus representative of the health care craftsmanship.

Romantic classics

Joseph von Eichendorff's novella "Memoirs of a Good-for-Nothing", first published in 1826, is considered the high point of literary Romanticism, but also its swan song: a plea for an attitude to life based on love and not on an ethic of achievement. The deliberately reduced composition of the coin motif makes the novella's suspenseful storyline intuitively recognisable. The extremes between which the musical protagonist moves are ingeniously staged: on the left, the dry customs office with pen, paper and abacus; on the right, the lyrical forest, female figure and floral decorations.

River with a loop

The Saar Loop – often referred to as Germany’s most beautiful river loop – is one of the Saarland’s most iconic tourist and scenic attractions. The most popular view is from the Cliffs of Cloef, 180 metres above the turning point of the river. The expressively designed motif is reduced to the essential elements of the meandering course of the river and takes a bird’s eye perspective of the iconographic view of the Saar Loop.

One nation, one unity

Germans in East and West alike celebrated the Day of German Unity on 3 October 1990, 328 days after the fall of the Berlin Wall. Even if the path turned out to be not as straightforward as expected, the vast majority of Germans see the unification of the nation as a welcome state of affairs. The coin has a captivatingly clear message: in the same way as the commemorative event itself, the statement “We are one people” emphasises the paramount importance of the East German population for reunification.
